WESLEY REEVE KILLED WHEN CAR COLLIDES

Glendale Man is Taken by Death on Way to Join
City Lodge

OTHERS ARE INJURED
Reeves Rushed to City in Ambulance, Dies on the Way There

Wesley Reeve was killed and M. L. Ogden and Samuel T. Bronnenberg were seriously injured early Friday night when a northbound passenger train struck their automobile at Glendale and Brand boulevards and hurled it, a twisted mass of wood and steel, into the ditch at the side of the track. Reeves was rushed to the receiving hospital in Los Angeles but died in the ambulance. Ogden and Bronnenberg were taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Reeve was to have been initiated into a fraternal order at Los Angeles last night, and was on his way to the lodge when the tragedy occurred. According to witnesses, the machine was driven by M. L. Ogden, who lives at 501 West Colorado. It approached the track headed for Los Angeles as the train was approaching the crossing at the Southern Pacific tower. The flagman approached his station and warned the driver with his red lantern, who tried to stop. He brought his machine to a standstill with one wheel on the track. Before he could back the automobile out of danger the train crashed into it and hurled it into the ditch. Ogden was the least injured of the trio. The force of the collision was so great that the engine was torn from the chassis and the men were pinned beneath the overturned car. A call was sent to the receiving hospital and an ambulance was rushed to the scene. C. H. Lewis, 409 West Elk avenue, took Ogden and Bronnenberg to the Glendale Sanitarium.

Bronnenberg, who is a real estate agent living at 214 West Harvard, had three ribs and a shoulder broken and Ogden received several painful cuts and bruises that will not prove fatal, according to the surgeons at the sanitarium. Little is known of Reeve, the dead man, other than that he lived in Glendale. At a late hour last night Glendale police who were sent to the scene were unable to learn where he lived. Relatives of the other men were notified of the accident at once. Neither of the men was in a condition last night to be questioned.

Cynics Aim to Say Specially Hateful and Bitter Things

Cynics aim to say mean things in a specially hateful way. In saying this in "The Listening Post" tonight James W. Foley evidently has in mind Bernard Shaw. At any rate he discusses the modern temper and that's interesting to say the least. Henry James in his comment this evening on the editorial page speaks of lawyers and referring to a notable criminal case about to be tried he fears that legal courtesy as between the lawyers will be given a severe test and may possibly break under the strain. Dr. Frank Crane touches on the subject of the politician in the world and in politeness he sees a mask that people wear to win in the social war. Della M. Stewart in her niche on the editorial page says that real progress comes from looking facts square in the face. There are editorials timely and forceful, eastern point of view that is illuminating and other features that hold the interest. The editorial page of this newspaper is a source of inspiration that is open to you if you care to embrace it. You will find it a mental stimulant.

LEGION POST MAKES ARRANGEMENTS TO CELEBRATE HERE

Four Minute Men Will Address People at Shows
Next Week

A largely attended business meeting of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, was held Friday night. No entertainment was provided as the session was devoted to completing the plans for carnival week, to be held from November 7 to 11. The Post formally decided upon the recommendation of the executive committee that the Legion decorate the streets from Brand boulevard to Orange street on Broadway and on Brand from Broadway to Harvard. The merchants in the same district will be asked to cooperate by decorating their stores.

It was announced that arrangements had been made to secure a four-minute speaker for each night during the carnival. Speakers will make short addresses from the stage of the show each evening and there will be talks on the subjects of Armistice Day and Americanism.

Another action was the condemnation by the Glendale Post of an organization that is operating under the name of the American Defenders' Association. It is said that the association is attempting to sell to former service men cards for $5 that will entitle the holders to a discount on all merchandise purchased at certain stores. This organization is said to be operating in Los Angeles and is making an attempt to operate in Glendale.

A visitor from George Washington Post of Washington, D. C., gave an interesting talk, as did a comrade from the Brooklyn, N. Y., Post. Comrade Gaylord Gould, who is a member of Glendale Post No. 127, and who lives in Santa Paula, addressed the meeting.

A "get-acquainted" banquet will be held after Armistice Day. This banquet will be one of the first formal "get-acquainted" affairs of the Post and all members are requested to attend. Preparations are being made to seat 200.

GIRLS' STUNT PARTY WAS GREAT RIOT OF COSTUMING

Clever and Original Scenes of Girls With Faculty
Much Enjoyed

A baby grand piano, Romeo and Juliet, Buster Brown, Mary Jane and Tige, Scare Crow, pretty gypsy maids, Spanish beauties and soldiers and sailors, these are just a few of the many costumes seen Friday night at the annual Girls' Stunt party held in the gymnasium of the high school. Every year this party is anticipated with great enthusiasm. The party Friday night proved one of the jolliest affairs ever held at the local institution.

There were four hundred girls present, all costumed and the scene was most beautiful. The first dance began at 7:30, after which the girls watched the stunts. The first was presented by the teachers, called "Backward Students." Twenty members of the faculty came dancing out, seemingly backwards, but if one looked closely it could be seen that they were masks on the back of their heads, with a plain dark one for hair, giving them the appearance of dancing backwards. This brought out much laughter and after they had all lined up a reading, song and dance were given by various members.

The second stunt was put on by the freshmen girls. This was a freshman girl trying to study at a table but she finds it impossible to keep her mind on her studies. While thinking, she falls asleep and out came several different studies represented in persons. Algebra wore a black costume with white A, B and C's as well as plus and minus signs. Each of the studies haunt the school girl as she sleeps. Physiology was represented by a ghost carrying a skull bone and a hammer. A pretty dancer represented Spanish, while cooking was a girl in a dainty apron carrying mixing bowl, egg beater and tea kettle. English came forth as an English jockey with swaggar stick and gave a pretty dance.

The sophomores came next, giving

GLENDALE HIGH IS LOSER SCORE 7 TO 0

Something Seemed to Prevent Goods Just When Victory Was in Sight

(By GEORGE C. JORDAN)

In a close 7 to 0 grid battle Friday afternoon, Franklin High School defeated the Glendale team on Franklin field, Highland Park, for the third successive year. Friday's game was a close, well-fought affair from start to finish. Although the Franklin team made their touchdown in the second quarter of play, the last period was really the most exciting. Freshmen were sent in and the Red and Black team made a last effort to shove the pigskin over the Franklin goal. They were within scoring distance several times but were always thwarted by a slip or a fumble.

Both teams were evenly matched, although the Franklin team seemed a little faster on the "getaway." The Glendale backs did not seem to be hitting in their usual form and the line seemed to play too high.

A number of long runs were made by the Franklin team while Terzo and Clouse starred for Glendale. Stoff and Green, Glendale's playmakers, made their touchdowns a nice one. Stoff's punts averaged nearly seven yards better than Franklin's. Captain Dutcher of the Glendale team played his usual stonewall brand of football at fullback and McCourt made some stunning tackles. The ends, Wilson and Ryan, got down under the kicks well. Fraley and Bartow also proved hard problems for the Franklin team. Chase at center played a consistent game. The Glendale team as a whole played a fairly good game but lacked their usual snap and fight though it must be said to their credit that they put up a game fight until the final whistle.

The line-up follows: Wilson, left end; Effler, left tackle; Clouse, left guard; Chase, center; Bartow, right guard; Fraley, right tackle; Ryan, right end; Terzo, quarter; McCourt, left half; Stoff, right half; Dutcher (Captain), fullback. Substitutes were Green for Dutcher; Dutcher for Effler; West for Green; Begg for Wilson; Gibson for Clouse, and Richardson for Fraley.

Glendale's next league game will be with Monrovia on Morse field on Armistice Day. This is the final league game for Glendale.

CHEAP GUY

WIDOW RETURNS.

Dressed in deep mourning, Mrs. Dorothy Caruso, widow of the great tenor, and her daughter, Gloria, arrived in New York from Italy. Mrs. Caruso's voyage to her native land was necessary in connection with settling her husband's estate. She expects to remain here for about five months and then she will return to Italy. The voyage to Italy will be necessary, she says, because a large part of Mr. Caruso's fortune is located there.

LA FOLLETTE WOULD OUST MELLON FOR RECENT REMARK

Mellon Said Wealth Could
Not be Made to Pay Fair
Share of Taxes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Retirement of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was demanded in the senate today by Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin on the ground that "the fiscal head of the government had impudently and brazenly declared that wealth could not be made to pay its fair share of taxes and the people must take up the burden."

LaFollette's demand for the retirement of Mellon came during the debate on his amendment providing for pitiless publicity on all income tax returns.

By the narrow margin of two votes the LaFollette amendment for full publicity on income tax returns was lost. The vote was 33 to 35. Nine republicans joined the solid democratic ranks in support of the amendment. Republican senators voting for the amendment were Borah, Capper, Cummins, Johnson, Jones (Washington), Kenyon, Ladd, LaFollette and Norbeck.

JUDGE LOWE TOOK IN MUCH FINE CASH

$40 for Being in a Hurry

While most of the cases were for minor violations, there were several cases of speeding. Mrs. J. W. Low of Los Angeles appeared and was fined $40 for speeding on Brand boulevard and driving her car in a reckless manner. Mrs. Low was driving at a rapid rate, blowing her horn for traffic to be cleared. She had no apparent reason for her haste. Gilbert Emery had a burst of speed at the wrong time on Brand and contributed $10 for using that street as a speedway. The arresting officer claimed Emery was driving his car along a main street at 31 miles an hour. Other fines ranging from $3 to $10 were made, according to the merits of the case.

INQUEST SHOWS EXPOSURE WAS CAUSE OF DEATH

Infant Found in Garage Was Not Killed Eckles
Said

POLICE INVESTIGATE
Believe Babe Was Thrown in Garage by Some One Travelling

Friday night, City Health Officer J. E. Eckles, acting on instructions from the county coroner, performed an autopsy on the body of the unidentified infant found Friday morning in a garage at the rear of a home on Maple avenue. The autopsy disclosed that the child was alive at the time it was placed in the garage and that death resulted from exposure.

According to Dr. Eckles, the infant was apparently 48 hours old at the time of death and there were no signs of violence on the body. The marks on the flesh, thought to indicate an attempt to burn the body, were found to be the result of decomposition. The most important disclosure of the autopsy is that fact that at the time the child was placed in the garage it was alive and death was the result of exposure. Police are investigating the case, but so far nothing has been accomplished. The baby may have been placed in the garage by passing motorists, as the garage is only a short distance from San Fernando road, a highway that is used by hundreds of motorists daily. It is believed that the body was thrown through the window by someone from another town while passing through.

ALVORD NOW HOME FROM MEXICO TRIP

Visited Gold Mine of Sonora
Where Men Worked
300 Years Ago

W. C. Alvord, 314 West Broadway, has returned from a trip to Sonora, Mexico, 22 miles west of the railroad station of Noria. There are great gold, silver and copper mines in that section some of which he visited and found extremely interesting, as they have miles of underground workings made by the Spaniards 300 years ago.

Mr. Alvord says the country between Noria and the old Spanish mines is a beautiful basin plateau, the mines being situated at an elevation of 3000 feet above sea level. The soil is red and covered with mesquite resembling small apple trees. There are no whites in that section, the mine workers being natives who receive a wage of $1.50 a day. Occasionally a Yaqui Indian is seen. He thinks the romance and traditions of that part of Mexico would make entertaining literature.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CITY TEACHERS

Those who have doubted the existence of a Ku Klux Klan in Glendale would have their confidence shaken could they have been at a gathering at the home of Miss Margaret McPherson of North Central avenue Friday evening, where the teachers of intermediate school met for their annual club meeting.

L. T. Rowley, the attendance officer of the Glendale schools and six new teachers were initiated into the A. O. U. S. T., otherwise known as the "Ancient Order of Intermediate School Teachers." The other initiates were I. E. Mansell, Mrs. Carrie P. McLennan and Misses Ethel E. Chase, Gertrude Grider, Murray Longley, and Alta Gaynor.

Candidates went through the ceremonial singly, their fellows being corralled in the basement under guard while it was in progress, but during the first initiation the other six managed to elude their guard and escape from the cellar to the automobile of L. T. Rowley. He drove them to the business center where they negotiated with their guard by telephone. They were persuaded to return, were received as though the initiation had been forgotten and allowed to participate in the pleasure of the evening.

After a time the other members of the faculty were detailed to act as guards and announcement was made that initiations would be resumed. Each candidate was brought before the Grand Wizard, gowned in black and wearing a black mask, his assistant attendants being garbed entirely in white with white masks. They were put through the rigid examination and called upon to answer many questions. For every failure to make the right answer a penalty was prescribed, the penalties of the two men being fixed at riding the goat. Women initiates were released in consideration of giving some stunt for the entertainment of the order. At the last they were required to enter into an obligation in writing, a part of which they were permitted to see but the balance of which they had to sign while blindfolded.

All the initiates exhibited courage subsequent to their flight from the cellar, and all came through the ordeal in good condition. At the conclusion of the initiations refreshments were served and games were played until a late hour. Thirty were present.

DUCK HUNTERS WILL FIND PLENTY WHEN RAIN COMES SOON

According to Gus Wangenheim, hunting and fishing authority of the hardware firm of Neale & Gregg, duck hunting in improving and he says that after the rain, which he predicts will fall by Sunday night, hunting will be excellent. The ducks are flying too high now.

The best shooting can be found at the mountain lakes in the early morning. In the slues near the beaches, hunting is good all day. Imperial Valley and in the vicinity of the Salton Sea hunting is reported excellent. According to a letter received from Mr. Wangenheim, ducks are flying into the Imperial Valley by the thousands and shooting improves every day. Some of the gun clubs are even guaranteeing their members that they can secure the limit.

Elizabeth Lake has been hunted out. At Big Bear, Little Bear and Baldwin lakes the hunting is good. There are plenty of ducks on these lakes and at Pine Lake and the big birds are starting to come in.

Quail hunting is good near Palmdale on the edge of the Mojave Desert and in the foothills near Elizabeth Lake. Around Esinore, Corona and in the Santa Ana Canyon hunting is just fair.

Fishing is still falling off and there is no hope that it will improve before the early part of 1922. The only fish running are jack smelt.

GIRL STUNT PARTY WAS RIOT OF FUN

a parody on the love scene from "Romeo and Juliet." The beautiful clinging vine on the balcony was represented by a girl dressed in green clinging to another, who was supposedly a marble column. Other girls represented the sun, moon, long hours, the villain, Romeo and Juliet. It was a very clever skit.

A beautiful Indian camp was the scene by the juniors. An Indian tepee, weeping willow trees, camp fire, surrounded by a dozen or more pretty Indian maidens, gave a very pretty effect. The girls sang several selections, two of them being, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," and "Hiawatha's Melody of Love." They also gave an Indian war dance.

The seniors also prepared a "Romeo and Juliet" scene which proved equally as clever as the one presented by the sophomores. For the curtain at the end of each act, a girl brought out a window shade and unrolled it.

There was a stunt by the post-graduate girls. One girl came out, dressed as a stunning looking young man, singing. A verse had been written for each month of the year, telling that some fellows may like the girl for one certain month, for instance, January, the skating girl, but that he liked a new one for every month of the year. The different months represented as follows: January, skating girl; February, coasting girl; March, dancing girl; April, shower girl; May, flower girl; June, bridesmaid; July, bathing and swimming girl; August, hiking girl; September, school girl; October, sport girl; November, fall girl; and December, Christmas girl.

The alumni girls gave a clever skit entitled, "Scene But Not Heard." It proved to be a pantomime love affair in two scenes.

After the stunts, the girls lined up for the grand march. There were so many girls present that they had to be divided, half going to the boy's gymnasium and the other half remaining. There were two orchestras that furnished "jazz" music for both crowds and the remainder of the evening was spent in filling their dancing programs and dancing.

The prize for the best stunt was awarded the freshman class, Miss Velma Bolton was awarded the prize for the cleverest costume, being a baby grand piano. There were also two prizes for the best waltzers, these going to Miss Louise Hester and Miss Orrell Hester in one gym, and Miss Marie Hearnshaw and Miss Katherine Guthrie in the other. The prizes were large boxes of candy.

Truths in Epigram

Humility is a virtue all preach, none practice; and yet everybody is content to hear. — John Seldon (1770-1854).

Come forth into the light of things, let nature be your teacher. — William Wordsworth (1770-1834).

The reward of a thing well done is to have done it. — Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803-1882).

A POOR EXCUSE

From a Japanese diplomat comes the explanation that his country does not desire to expand for the sake of acquiring space for its population. It is not bent on conquest for the sake of anything so vulgar as the mere acquisition of power. The privilege of getting so potent as to be able to slam and lock the justly celebrated open door, does not move its ambition; nothing like that.

All that Japan wants, he says, is raw material, that by some error of nature, has been stored in China rather than in his own country.

If a burglar were pressed for an excuse, and was in a mood to tell the truth, the plea cited is about the moral texture of the plea he might make: He was innocent of wrong intent, but there were materials (raw and cooked) the possession of which he felt to be essential. Inadvertently these materials were owned by the owner. He had nothing against the owner; he regretted the marring of the window frames as he jimmied his way in, but as the window had been fastened, what could he do?

Provided China has raw materials needed by Japan, the course of the later, measured by many precedents, and indicated by moral and statutory laws, would be to buy them. Barter is carried on successfully by individuals. There appears no reason why it should not succeed between large aggregations of individuals.

Perhaps the diplomat was speaking out of his approval of sinister designs such as his government could not uphold. If it does uphold them, it will have to be by force. No such lame logic as ascribed to him can carry a scheme of plunder to triumphant end.

ONE BOY'S CHANCE

For an offense serious enough to have sent him to prison if pressed by an austere prosecution, a lad was found guilty in a court at Pomona. He was sentenced to fine, to restore the amount won by illegal methods, and to a term in jail. Because the offense had been his first, the jail sentence was suspended. Now he has a chance to make good.

It has happened many times that young prisoners in this state have been granted clemency from which they profited nothing. In instances far too numerous, such juvenile criminals have been released on probation, not only once, but as often as they reappeared at the bar. It has not been uncommon for the different periods of probation to overlap.

When the boy, an offender for the first time, receives such clemency as saves him the disgrace of prison, if there is good in him, it is aroused. He has been close enough to peril to realize the fearfulness of existence as one of a collection of convicts. He is as one suddenly drawn back from the brink of a chasm.

If after that he seeks his old companions and his old ways, and once more faces a trial judge, the likelihood of making anything of him is remote.

The lad at Pomona was given the opportunity to redeem himself. This is the sort of opportunity peculiarly prone to come but once. It is hoped the beneficiary will appreciate this truth, and act upon it. In one direction lies good honorable citizenship. In the other awaits ruin.

SENATOR WATSON

Senator Watson of Georgia makes the specific charge that American soldiers were hanged in France in large numbers. He alleges with much heat that this was done without courts martial. The implication of his words is that when an American officer was not pleased with the conduct of a private, he shot him, or caused him to be hanged.

Such charges may be deemed worthy of investigation only because the fact that they emanate from a United States senator, seems to lend them a certain dignity. In this instance the dignity is lacking wholly; only the theory of it remains.

If such outrageous crimes had been committed, the whole of civilization would have known the truth. No military secrecy could have hedged about conduct so heinous. The men after arrival in the United States and getting out of the service, would have torn the murderous officers to bits with their naked hands. They would have heralded the dreadful deeds of the battle zone to all the listening world.

Had Georgia manifested proper respect for the people of the United States, it could not have sent Watson to Washington. There was nothing in his record entitling him to the distinction. There was much that should have kept him out of public life.

The soldiers who went from this country to France were human beings. This characterization includes both rank and file and official roster. The men were not commanded by wild beasts or by degenerates, nor were their superiors addicted to the amusement of killing them.

It is to be regretted that the accusation comes from a source that makes formal investigation of it necessary.

CHINA AS A BANKRUPT

A correspondent named Gallagher sends word that China is bankrupt. He credits the Chinese, British and Japanese with plotting to prevent the paying of money due in the United States.

Gallagher fails to convince. China has assets that safeguard it against bankruptcy. Japan desires to possess these assets, and perhaps looks forward to getting them at bankruptcy sale. It clearly is possible that China should be embarrassed, greatly hampered, indeed, by the fact that a neighbor desires to prey upon it.

If China could be pictured to the world as a hopeless bankrupt, the rogues that now have designing eyes upon her wealth would be advantaged greatly. They might even befooled a very worthy Gallagher into poking his pen hand into the fire to draw out a few chestnuts for them.

The conspiracy alleged is absurd on its face. Great Britain, by its ready acquiescence in the conference shows that it is friendly to the United States. Its foremost men are favorable to the early dissolution of the Anglo-Jap pact. England could not on any ground of sentiment, business or diplomacy afford to cultivate intimacy with Japan at the cost of America's esteem.

The Chinese are grateful to the United States, hopeful of its moral support, suspicious of the Japanese. They could not well plot with their enemies, and thus without winning these enemies to amity, set up a new enmity with a power that for years had shown them consideration. It is possible that the Chinese have been misled; have been unduly humble, but as a nation they have not the slightest thought of committing suicide. This circumstance casts a shadow of doubt upon the Gallagher findings.

One judge at a single sitting sent three speeders to jail for fifteen days each. The minor courts had threatened for so long a time to treat the reckless driver with severity, that the threats had been misconstrued. They really meant business, and were not in token of judicial popularity.

According to estimates there are fifty antelope still living in this state. A tardy effort is being made to save them. Forty years ago these wild creatures were roaming in vast herds. Hunters killed them, in part for meat, but mostly for the fun of seeing them die. It is to be hoped that hunters may be induced to spare the remnants of the once mighty host.

A professor remarks warningly that of twenty million school children in this country fifteen million suffer from defects. More than that, professor. No child is perfect except in the estimation of its mother, and she experiences occasional doubts.

There is some possibility that one of the football teams in the game marking Pasadena's Tournament of Roses will be from Iowa. A contest between such a team and a California eleven would subject a lot of people in southern California to a tempest of conflicting emotions. They simply couldn't tell which aggregation was entitled to the benefit of their rooting.

This time it is a bunch of Omaha heirs who are setting up a claim to the Anneka Jans estate in New York city. Just a few months ago California heirs to the same property were engaged in selecting the style of limousine they thought would comport with a condition of great wealth. Those of them not still patronizing the street cars, compromised on flivvers.

More tourists by far than last year are expected in southern California this year. In making the estimate railroad officials have in mind only the travelers who pay fare. The box car brigade is reported not to be losing in comparative volume.

The Politest Man in the World

By DR. FRANK CRANE

One of the French newspapers is carrying on a voting contest to determine the politest man.

La Fouchardiere declares that the politest man in the world is the door-man at the hotel or restaurant.

To the objection that the door-man is paid for being polite, he responds "So is everybody else."

He points out that one way or another nobody is polite except he expects to gain something by it.

If you smile and speak peaceably to an angry man, it is because you are bawling for his good-will.

If you tip your hat and smile at a lady, it is because you anticipate her favoring thought.

If you get up and give your seat to an older person in the car, you are getting paid in the sense of satisfaction that you feel in realizing that you are a man of fine sensibilities.

And even if you bow to the Saints and make due genuflection at church, it is because you look for answering grace from the invisible powers.

The door-man is a model for us all. Speak to him rudely and he smiles in unbroken good-humor.

He is so skilled in his estimates that at a glance he knows the deference due to each individual. His ability in this regard surpasses intellect and rises almost to the level of the dog. It is a faultless instinct.

If you say that this is obsequiousness and not politeness, the answer is that it is his business to be obsequious and as a rule he does it well.

It is not altogether because he cannot be anything else but polite. Far from it. Nobody can be so insolent and with such impunity as a lackey; no one can wound more cruelly with his cold scorn or his disdainful glance than the haughty gentleman whose business it is to usher you into the place of public refreshment.

In a sense he is a millionaire, for he has a vast supply of that banal and precious money: current throughout the world, which can buy almost anything. That is to say, the money of Politeness.

There are people who have made their fortunes without other means, quality or talent. It is by politeness and insidious attentions that the house dog secures his meat.

It is by politeness that the courtiers of kings in other days and the courtiers of the people in these days attain their eminence.

Politeness has to be acquired. It is the result of effort more than the effect of a natural disposition. The baby is not polite, for he says what he thinks. He only becomes polite when he says what he thinks will please you.

Politeness is not the real man. It is a mask; the indispensable gas mask that people must wear if they would win in the social war.

The first duty of those who have charge of children is to commence their education by teaching them the art of smiling at people they detest.

THE LISTENING POST

An erudite woman in an erudite assemblage in an erudite community not far away said in an erudite fashion not long ago that nothing trite was wanted in the assemblage.

That was an interesting thing to say as reflecting the state of some the modern temper. Which craves novelty and new sensation.

And rejects as undesirable all that is old and worn in the way of thinking.

Some of the modern temper does not realize that truth is very old.

It is the tritest thing we have, if the superlative is permitted.

And under the erudite pronouncement above all that would be rejected.

Boo-ed out of court, so we might say.

But really erudite persons are always saying erudite things.

In an erudite way.

To impress the simple minded and unerudite.

It being the impression among really erudite persons that what is understandable is too simple for utterance.

Very erudite persons revel in the not-understandable.

They are the persons who refer to the mass of us as the "common people."

They are the ones who are groping about among the stars for meteor dust.

And the wayside daisy fails to impress them.

Overalls and jumpers and unmanicured nails are anathema.

Which is not saying anything against manicuring.

Merely observing that there are things to do in life that stand in the way of perfectly manicured nails.

The advanced person of whom we speak and who declared against triteness in any form, would shut away from us many things.

The Golden Rule, for instance.

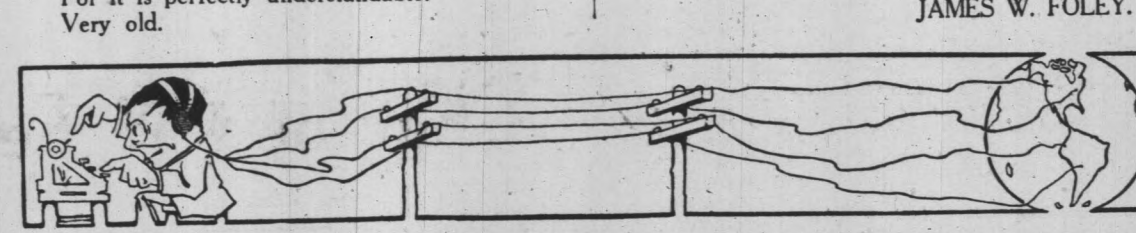

That is surely trite.

So having done away with the Golden Rule in the name of advanced thinking and erudition, we come to the Lord's Prayer.

Surely that is trite.

For it is perfectly understandable.

Very old.

SONGS OF THE POETS

No Baby In the House—By Clara Dolliver

No baby in the house, I know,
'Tis far too nice and clean.
No toys, by careless fingers strewn,
Upon the floors are seen.
No finger-marks are on the panes
No scratches on the chairs;
No wooden men set up in rows,
Or marshaled off in pairs;
No little stockings to be darned,
All ragged at the toes;

No pile of mending to be done,
Made up of baby-clothes;
No little troubles to be soothed;
No little hands to fold;
No grimy fingers to be washed;
No stories to be told;
No tender kisses to be given;
No nicknames "Dove" or "Mouse;"
No merry frolics after tea—
No baby in the house!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE HEART BOWED DOWN

[New Republic]

Mr. Borah is not, as we put it in our vivid, nervous, native tongue, a crab. Nor is he a gloom, though he can at times approach seriously near the border line of that category. But certainly his is the heart bowed down. He is more inclined to view with alarm than to point with pride. Life to him is real, life is earnest, and there is much to be done before the grim reaper cometh. He is a serious man full of serious thoughts and if he has a light and festive or frolicsome side it has never been publicly disclosed. He is keenly sensitive, I believe, and easily hurt. My own notion is that this quick susceptibility to adverse criticism has kept him from thrusting himself forward and maintaining against attack the position to which his qualities and capabilities entitle him. He has not got a thick hide; he feels the slings and darts of outraged fortune. Other men less alive to possible hurt and wounds press ahead of him.

WHY HE WAS DISQUALIFIED

[Hartford Courant]

In the colleges where freshmen are early initiated into the mysteries and privileges of the Greek letter fraternities the matter of selecting those worthy of the great honor is apt to occupy a considerable amount of attention on the part of upper classmen during the opening weeks of the college year.

Alumni not infrequently are called upon for aid and advice and one from a New England college recently queried an undergraduate brother concerning the matter of selecting those worthy of the great honor is apt to occupy a considerable amount of attention on the part of upper classmen during the opening weeks of the college year.

LADY ASTOR'S COLLEAGUE

[Hartford Times]

The election of Mrs. Margaret Wintringham to the British house of commons for the Louth division of Lincolnshire is of more than passing interest. It is taken to indicate that the sentiment in England for

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA M. STEWART

There's a certain superficial optimism that refuses to see more than one side. It is attractive, but deceptive.

Real progress in individual or in nation first comes from looking the facts squarely in the face. It may bring down-heartedness for the minute. It probably will.

But the real optimist is not the one who has never known disappointment or sorrow or discouragement. Shelter does not bring strength. Battling with the storms of life does.

Satisfaction with what is suggests stagnation. Lack of discouragement suggests lack of sober thought. The greatest men of earth were not always up in the clouds. Their very knowledge brought to them sudden minutes, minutes of retrospection, of weighing, of desire, which in turn brought vision and striving.

Their very greatness lay in the fact that feeling the weight of privation or sin or sorrow, of hopes deferred and joys denied, they were able to overcome obstacles and plan afresh.

So we lesser ones do not need to be over sad because things do not come out just as we expected them to. Every failure a lamp post to better achievement, every sorrow a challenge to overcoming, every disappointment an urge to broadness and firmness of new structure—if we can compass this vision, we shall have the optimism that really counts.

an increase in the number of women in the popular branch of parliament is growing. Up to now the only woman in the house of commons has been Lady Astor, whose husband is a member of the house of lords. Both Lord and Lady Astor are of American birth and American lineage. Mrs. Wintringham is a liberal, while Lady Astor is a conservative. It is understood that the women voters of England will make an effort to increase the number of women in the house of commons at the next general election.

representatives in parliament, and that their efforts will be seconded by some of the most prominent men in public life in the country.

rumor the general election may not be far off. It is said that when he comes to an understanding with Mr. De Valera—if he ever does—Mr. Lloyd George will appeal to the country for the ratification of his policy.

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

A few days ago in this column was related a conversation with a criminal lawyer. He was of the type that builds fortune, and a reputation of a dubious sort, by bringing about the acquittal of persons known to be guilty.

About the time of the relation in question, a lawyer from Chicago sought admission to the bar of this state. His purpose was to appear in one criminal case. His admission was opposed. Telegrams were read in open court charging him with various serious offenses against ethics and the statutes. Followed then a pause until the charges could be affirmed or authentically denied.

The Chicago lawyer seems to have won the right to appear. At the same time, the district attorney holds that his own opposition to such course was right. Thus the two men, both resentful, each angry towards the other, will meet, one eager to convict a prisoner, and the other eager to acquit. Legal courtesy is certain to undergo a test, and for it to break under the strain would not be surprising.

Outlaw coal strikers threaten the country with a fuel shortage. The term "outlaw" is applied to strikers whose conduct is without the sanction of the organization to which they belong. In some instances they deserve to be regarded as outlaws, with or without sanction.

Milk drivers in New York City are refusing to make deliveries. They are causing invalids and children great suffering and danger. Perhaps the unions approve, but the drivers, morally considered, stand on the plane of outlaws in the real sense just the same.

Hallowe'en was marked by malicious mischief and crime. This form of celebration should be discouraged by police and parental authority. There is no joy in being a hoodlum, and a holiday is no excuse for boorishness.

The custom of protesting against the waste of forests is indicative of a good heart. It does not seem to have any effect. It has been in vogue for years. Editors shed ink and almost shed tears as they battle to save the timber. Unhappily their counsel is wasted. So also, are the forests. So is the land that has done humanity the service of producing timber.

After a few years there will be no forests. Other building material will have to be found. Then people will look back to the present, and wonder that their ancestors should have been such fools; always cutting down trees and never planting any.

An earnest effort seems to be in the making to oust District Attorney Woolwine. It has the entire approval of the bunko fraternity, and a few individuals smarting under life terms or shrinking from the prospect, doubtless lend the move their entire endorsement.

Two men who received thirty day sentences for speeding have appealed. Even the trouble and expense of appeal may have a salutary effect.

The day when the chronic speeder divided his expense about equally between fines and gasoline and grumbled more at the cost of the gasoline than at the fines, seem to have passed.

Arthur Brisbane evidently will not attend the disarmament conference. He says that Lloyd George will be the ablest man present.

Indictment of Texas ku klux must be attended by some embarrassment. One jury set out to do this and discovering that the sheriff was a member of the order, abandoned the job.

Elevator operators continued to run their elevators in a New York building, after the structure was on fire, and the shafts filled with smoke. They succeeded in rescuing all who had been in danger.

Such heroism is as fine as may be displayed on the battlefield or anywhere else.

One of the measures frequently mentioned in dispatches from Washington is the "nuisance tax." The average citizen is inclined to believe that this is the one he has to pay.

The Hapsburg dynasty was courting extinction when it started the recent coup. The Hungarian cabinet has formally deposed it, and it has gone whither Watterson said long ago it should be sent.

While the Hapsburgs thus pass from the field of vision, the Hohenzollerns remain in view, owing to financial reluctance. The name appears on the delinquent tax list now.

A SONG ON MILO WHEAT
 That wife who thought they'd have a change
 And try some other food,
 Saw her husband looking down his nose
 As though not in good mood.
 She quickly noticed something wrong
 And said why can't you eat?
 He looked straight at his wife and said
 Have you no MILO WHEAT?

CHORUS

For all the folks who eat this food
 I'm sure you will hear say
 For strength, and health, and every ill
 It's best we know today
 We're living now on MILO WHEAT,
 Our bank account will grow
 For we can have a good square meal
 For three cents now you know.

And then she saw her baby boy
 Had pushed his plate aside,
 She thought she'd make him eat it—
 But he set there and cried.
 Her daughter then looked up and said
 "I surely have a wish."
 For after eating MILO WHEAT
 I cannot go this stuff!

Miscellaneous

SOUTH SIDE SEES MUCH ACTIVITY

Lumber Business Gives Idea of Amount of Business Going on There

There is unusual activity in the building of homes on the south side, and especially just below San Fernando and Los Feliz. The Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company is furnishing a large part of the lumber, and in its usual and prompt manner is making quick deliveries to the many contractors. One man, a Michigan contractor and builder, who has just come to Southern California, has purchased a large block of lots on the south side and will build 125 houses. He is now in the east making arrangements to close up his building business there and is expected back within a few days to start active operations.

Many other contractors and builders are working to capacity on the south side and indications point to great growth.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE SEEN LAST NIGHT

Theatregoers of Glendale who attended the first night of the Meiklejohn and Dunn vaudeville road show at the T. D. and L. theatre last night were pleasantly surprised at the meritorious program. Unusually attractive in every way, the acts showed what could be done to delight Glendale vaudeville audiences. Ethel Clayton appeared on the silver sheet in her newest vehicle, "Beyond." In this drama Miss Clayton does some of the best work of her career and the mystical theme of the photoplay is developed in such a way as to bring out all of Miss Clayton's dramatic ability.

Friday Dance—Odd Fellows hall was beautifully decorated with flowers and made a pretty setting for the dance given there Friday evening by members of the Young Ladies' Institute.

There was an excellent attendance and the party was a great success from a social viewpoint. Just how much money was realized has not been determined.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JOHN JONES AND THE BANK

John Jones was a janitor—wonderful one. Who never knocked off till the work was all done. He polished the brass knobs and swept all the floors. And never omitted the one of his chores. John Jones was a student, and read that success came only to those who were faithful—Ah, yes. He knew that was true and so faithfully kept His trust with employers and dusted and swept.

John Jones began sweeping when he was quite young. With a smile in his eye and a song on his tongue. For he read that a song and a smile were the sum Of the things that you needed to make success come. He sang and he swept and he swept and he sang. And through all the hallways his tenor voice rang. And he smiled such a smile as the books said he must. Till like a rare sunbeam it shone through the dust.

So he read and he swept and he dusted and worked. And he never was gloomy and no task he shirked. And he said as he read and dreamed of success: "They'll make me the president of this bank, I guess." For he worked in a bank and the Book said men rose From the humblest affairs to the highest, by close Attention to duty, and so his faith kept Him loyal and true as he dusted and swept.

And one day I went in to the bank where John Jones Began as a janitor; I heard his tones Ring clear as he sang in the president's den. And went in to see the old fellow again. And there was the President, deep in his chair. But it wasn't John Jones, who was still sweeping there. And dusting and singing and smiling and glad. But the job he had thought of somebody else had.

And the President there, I am sorry to say. Was never a janitor once in his day. He never swept floors and for many a while He frowned and he scowled and was not known to smile. And there was John Jones who began at the foot. And stood there as fast as the day he was put. So there's something the matter—perhaps in the Book. Or perhaps in John Jones, if you trouble to look.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthio-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Menthio-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

VOLLEY BALL GAME WON BY EAGLE ROCK

Great Excitement Thursday
When Two Games Played on Local Grounds

The Central school grounds presented a lively scene Thursday afternoon and the shouts of excited boys and girls notified everyone within a wide radius that something strenuous was going on. The occasion was a volley ball match between girls of the Eagle Rock school and a team from the Glassell Park school, also a soccer contest between Eagle Rock boys and the boys of Glassell Park. Miss Mary Barbara Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harley Taylor, is captain of the home volley ball team and their coach is Miss Longergan, a teacher in the Central school. Miss Mildred Lerchen, who has taught in the Glassell Park school for several years, coached the team from that school. In this match Eagle Rock defeated Glassell Park with a score of 45 to 20.

The soccer game resulted in a tie, one all. Paul Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bates, is captain of the Eagle Rock team and their coach is Madison H. Compton.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETS WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Eberhart Tells of Visit to Maternity Hospital in Los Angeles

Parents, teachers, and interested friends attended the monthly meeting of the Eagle Rock Parent-Teachers Association Wednesday afternoon, in the Central school auditorium. After the regular routine of business, Mrs. E. H. Eberhart was called on to tell the association about her recent visit to the Maternity Home on Utah street in Los Angeles, and repeated the information given, the Twentieth Century club last week. The association voted to send a check to the home as a token of their desire to assist in so worthy an undertaking. Mrs. Paul Elderkin, accompanied by Mrs. Vardaman Bailey, sang two solos. It is always a pleasure to hear her sweet voice and perfect enunciation.

Mrs. C. W. Young spoke on Sociology, and was followed by Miss Dora L. Kirwin and her co-worker, Mrs. Alice W. Aldwin, who are directors of dramatics in the children's department of the Los Angeles Community Service. One play a month, they stated, is given at the Normal Hill center by neighborhood groups of children. They take up the work with interest and pleasure and it teaches them concentration, manners, and courtesy. The department will help outlying communities in extension work of this nature, loaning costumes if mothers will replace them in case they are damaged by use.

LADIES GUILD HAS RECEPTION FOR MEN

Function Was Missionary
Thank Offering Dinner,
150 Present

Ladies of the Presbyterian Guild and the Missionary Society invited their husbands and the members of the Westminster Guild, an organization of girls connected with the church, to a dinner at 6:30 in the social hall of the church, on Wednesday evening. It was attended by 105 persons, an unexpectedly large number, and was called a missionary thank-offering dinner.

The decorations were in charge of Miss Minerva Treadwell, an artist in that line, and were elaborate and very attractive. Yellow was the predominant color, worked out with pumpkins, some of them suspended from the ceiling and holding ferns, chrysanthemums, roses, and other flowers, vines and autumn leaves. Before leaving the tables Mrs. Gladys Stewart, soprano soloist, and R. W. Beers, director of the large choir, entertained the diners with two duets, and Dr. Angus Cameron, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church in Pasadena, lately from Detroit, Mich., spoke on the theme, "Go Ye." He applied it to missionary work and all other branches of church service.

Later, Mrs. S. T. Montgomery talked on current events. She has a clever faculty of selecting and summarizing the most noteworthy proceedings of the day, in this and other countries.

A school of missions will be held at the church Sunday evening, November 6. Mrs. Montgomery will lead the women's department of the school, and Mrs. Wilson of South Pasadena, a former missionary in Persia, will instruct the girls of the Westminster Guild. The teachers in the department for men and boys are not yet chosen. "Unfinished Business" will be the book studied. The sections of the school will meet in different parts of the church building. Arrangements will be made to serve refreshments after the Christian Endeavor meetings on Sunday, so it will not be necessary for anyone to go home before the school session in the evening.

WHY REAL ESTATE IS TO BE DESIRED

"Why are you enthusiastic about real estate?" This question was asked of Alexis Courtall of the H. E. Barum Real Estate company of Eagle Rock, whereupon Mr. Courtall proceeded to give a number of the "strong points" of real estate.

"It goes without saying that there will always be a demand for good land," he said this morning. "The reason for this is that land is the only permanent thing in the world. We must live somewhere and our very existence establishes a relationship between the earth and ourselves. Hence, the demand for good land is bound to continue. People are going to continue to build homes wherever they can get good residential property."

"There are principals that operate in the growth of any city or any district within a city. Land values in any city constitute a mirror which reflects the life of the inhabitants thereof. We shall always find as many residential sections in a city as there are social strata."

"The location of a residential section is based on social considerations and not on purely economic ones. The elements which make residential sections attractive to people would seem to be as follows: Accessibility to business districts, absence of nuisances, a good elevation, pleasing surroundings, facilities of transportation, etc. There are indeed few sections that have better climate, better streets, better car service, better public utilities, etc., than has Eagle Rock."

"Our Eagle Rock office has been instrumental in bringing about immediate development in Eagle Rock of two large tracts of land involving over $200,000. These tracts are going to be developed along lines that will make them valuable additions to the city. The improving of these tracts will add a million dollars in valuation in lots alone, not to mention the value of the hundreds of homes that will be constructed on this property. This company is bringing some large builders here who expect to construct a great number of dwellings in Eagle Rock in the near future."

"Eagle Rock is far from dead, and the building operations that are assured for the next few months will conclusively demonstrate this fact."

THURSDAY CLUB'S PROGRAM ENJOYED

Ladies Gather at Home of
Mrs. Braasch to Hear
Numbers

Members of the Thursday Morning Music club, which has fortnightly meetings, gathered at the home on North Ellenwood drive of Mrs. A. J. Braasch, president of the club. The long program was made up of the compositions by Gounod and Godard, which were skillfully rendered, all who join this club having passed the amateur stage in music. Some of them teach the art and all are accustomed to entertaining the public. It is the custom at these meetings, besides interpreting the works of the great masters, to give sketches of the lives of the composers.

Guests of the club were Miss Leyden, a recent arrival from England, Mrs. Frank Taylor, and Mrs. Arthur Shears. Miss Leyden, who has a remarkably fine and highly trained voice, gave the members much pleasure by her rendering of three songs. The club will provide a musical program for the Twentieth Century club on January 26, giving selections from the opera, "The Bohemian Girl," in costume.

Rev. F. E. Knopf, who was pastor of the Congregational church of Eagle Rock for four years and has resided in Pasadena for a year past, has accepted the pastorate of a church at Perth, in Riverside county, and removed there with his wife a week ago.

Mrs. Frank Taylor's mother and father have arrived from Oklahoma, motoring all the way, with the intention of making their home here. They are now at the Taylor home on North Ellenwood drive.

New arrivals from Los Angeles are Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Schmitz, who have recently had a home built at 264 North Kenilworth avenue.
